UWM Manfred Olson Planetarium SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
The Manfred Olson Planetarium will be giving 45 minute shows every hour. Visitors will see a short presentation on a variety of science topics and then be dazzled by the night sky. Look for the Big Dipper, Cygnus the Swan, and many more constellations from the countryside.

UWM Biological Sciences Greenhouse SUNDAY
UW-Milwaukee Biological Department maintains a 9,200 square foot state-of-the-art greenhouse situated on the roof of the NWQ Building Complex. Come for a self-guided tour exploring the diversity of plant shapes & adaptations, or try your luck with the economic botany scavenger hunt.

UWM School of Architecture and Urban Planning SUNDAY
The School of Architecture and Urban Planning building opened in 1994. It provides classroom, office, and studio spaces for faculty and students in Architecture and Urban Planning. Local planning organizations, representatives from the Institute for Ecological Design and the Buildings-Landscapes-Cultures program will be on hand to discuss how neighborhood initiatives shape the future of Milwaukee, the region and the world.

UWM Golda Meir Library SUNDAY
With 2017 marking the 50th anniversary of Milwaukee’s 200 consecutive nights of Fair Housing marches, the UWM Archives will highlight documents of the movement. The internationally-renowned American Geographical Society Library will have a variety of cartographic treasures on display. Special Collections will offer a sampling of early printed books to contemporary publications, fine press and artist’s books and comic books and zines.

UW-Milwaukee, Undergraduate Admissions Campus Tour SUNDAY
Built in 1936 as part of the Milwaukee-Downer Seminary campus, Vogel Hall has served as home to many campus departments including the UWM Art Museum. This beautiful building is now the UWM Visitor Center and home to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. This guided tour of UWM will include everything from gargoyles, fountains and faraway galaxies to bronze Panthers, historic architecture and state-of-the-art buildings.
